Arizona Couple Greeted by Local Group

LEFT TO RIGHT — Carla Reeves, Mrs. Mildred Reeves, Harry Phillips, Chief Jack Brown, Bud Collier, Martin Kenny, Jim City, Mrs. Kenny, E. L. Archer Jr., and Richard Hogue.

The Chamber of Commerce Tourist Committee made a surprisingly easy stop of our "Tourist of the Week" last Thursday at noon on highway 67 West. Mr. and Mrs.
Martin Kenny of Tucson, Arizona, were pulling to the side of the highway to change drivers when the tourist committee accosted them.
"The surprising part of it all," said Mrs. Kenny, "was so many people getting out of cars and crowding around us, we just could not imagine what had happened."

The Kennys were on vacation and were planning a stop in Memphist to visit a daughter and family and from there to Mobile, Briningham, Alabama, DeKalb and Galveston, Texas, with other relatives and friends before returning to their home in Tucson where Mr.
Kenny is employed as a brick mason. They are both natives of Alabama, having moved to Arizona only a few years ago.

Chief of Police Jack Brown had Bud Collier and E. L. Archer Jr. to assist him in stopping and extending the invitation to be the guests of the Week. Harry Phillips of Nunn-Pentecost Motor Company furnished a new air conditioned Chrysler to transport the couple to the Hope Plaza Court where Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luck furnished a room for them to freshen up before enjoying one of Glenmar Restaurant's delicious meals in the company of Mayor and Mrs. George Frazier and City Manager and Mrs. Garland Medders representing the City of Hope. Jim City of Radio Station KXAR interviewed the couple for a play-back later in the afternoon and Richard Hogue drove their car to his Esso Station where it was given a service job.

After lunch the couple visited the Chamber of Commerce office where they were shown a display of products manufactured locally and, as one might expect, Mr. Kenny's chief interest was the display by the Hope Brick Company. Before resuming their trip the Ken-nys were presented some gifts provided by the following business firms: Box of sweets by Mildred's Pastries, Basket by Hope Basket
Co., ball bat and hammer handle
by Bruner-Ivory Handle Company, walking cane and Hickory Chips by Split Hickory Company, a half bushel basket of fancy peaches by the Sam Revis Orchards, Hickory chips by Hickory Aroma Company and a Hope watermelon by the Chamber of Commerce.

Russia Warned But Stands by Berlin Formula

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko stood firm today on his formula for a Berlin-German settlement in the face of a Western threat to break off the Geneva talks.

Gromyko insisted on his demand for the creation of an all-German committee as the price of a Berlin truce agreement. He made his position clear at a secret session.

A U. S. spokesman said there was no progress in the 90-minute con at Gromyko's villa. Officials said that as a practical matter it appears the meetings will continue next week.

U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told Gromyko at secret session Monday that unless there is some progress here in the next few days, the West will bring the conference to a speedy conclusion.

Gromyko did not at that time
say the Soviet demand for an all-German committee on reunification was unalterable. But subsequent he gave a preliminary rejection to a new Western proposal for reunification negotiations by the Big Four and said the Soviets would not agree to any plan which barred direct negotiations between the two Germans.

The Western plan called for the East and West Germans to serve as advisors to the Big Four negotiators, with direct negotiations between the two German governments only when the Big Four considered them necessary.

Informants said all the Western ministers were ready to break off the talks almost immediately unless Gromyko soften his position.
Western leaders feel the conference has now reached a real and serious impasse which could lead to a breakdown within a matter of days unless Gromyko backs down.

High Western officials said the West never will agree to the all-German committee because the real Soviet purpose is to open up opportunities for Communism in West Germany.

The West today looked to Gromyko for a new proposal that might break the stalemate and save the conference from failure. Gromyko was assumed to be seeking instructions from Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Reporter in Denial He Took Payoff

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Trial of a $500,000 libel suit resumed today with Arkansas Democrat reporter Bob Trout from reading transcript of his alleged conversations with two pinball operators which was published in the Arkansas Gazette.

The trial in Pulaski Circuit Court opened with a full courtroom as Trout, under questioning by his attorneys, admitted certain parts of the conversation
as published in the newspaper.

Trout contended, however, that other parts of the transcript had been taken out of context or altered in referring to his conversations with Cecil Hill and Harold Dunaway the pinball operators.

Trout yesterday denied allegations by Hill and Dunaway that he accepted a $2,000 payoff to suppress articles on pinball machine operations.

The reporter testified that tape recordings which Hill and Dunaway produced in support of their charge had been altered.

The Gazette published transcripts from the tapes.
Trout told a jury of nine men and three women that he had various dealings with Hill and Dunaway in his capacity as a reporter and that some of the speeches attributed to him in the recordings had been lifted from conversations he had with them on other matters.

He said specifically that conversational exchanges mentioning $2-000 had referred to a contribution Hill and Dunaway, as representatives of a pinball association, made to a charity last February.

Trout's attorney, state Sen.
Max Howell, said in his opening statement he would show the tape recordings had not existed before this year. Hill and Dunaway charged the alleged payoff was made in March, 1958.

Alston Jennings, attorney for Hill and Dunaway, said he would present a number of witnesses to show the tapes had been played in 1958. Jennings said Pulaski Prosecutor J. Frank Holt knew of the tapes last year.

J. W. Barron, attorney for the Gazette, said he would show that the newspaper printed a factual account of Hill and Dunaway's charges and that it did so without malice toward Trout.

Steel Union Leader Turns to Aluminum Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelworkers
Union President David J. McDonald turned his attention today for a while today to negotiations with aluminum companies, hoping a settlement there might shorten the steel strike.

He met nearly two hours with members of his aluminum negotiating teams, who have been bargaining with the three major aluminum producers for more than a week.

The union teams were scheduled to return to the bargaining tables this afternoon, but McDonald said he would not be present.

McDonald said the union has not yet received replies to proposals for 15 cents more an hour Contracts with the "Big Three"
aluminum companies — Alcoa,
Reynolds and Kaiser—expire July
21. The firms employ about 53-000 production workers. The steel union represents about 30,500 of them. A strike would shut down about 50 per cent of the country's aluminum production.

The week-old strike in the basic steel industry has idled a half-million workers and shut down about 90 per cent of the nation's steel output. It has brought unemployment to more than 40,000 workers in allied fields— coal, trucking and railroads.

Mother of Victim Pleads for Leggett

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The mother of the boy strangled to death by Emmett Earl Leggett today appealed to Gov. Orval E.
Faubus to save the condemned slayer's life.

Mrs. James R. King telegraphed Faubus from San Antonio, Tex.
that "am hoping you will change
the sentence of Emmett Earl Leggett to life and not consider the death penalty."

"I still feel this boy is insane and needs proper medical attention. May God be with you and guide you in making a just and true decision."

Leggett is scheduled to be put

Steel Strike Threat to State Bridges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A threat to Arkansas highway and bridge projects from the current steel strike was seen yesterday by a state Highway Department official.

Lester McCann, assistant construction engineer, said if the steel strike continues for several weeks work might have to be stopped on some jobs.

He said it would be from one to three months before steel is needed on most jobs now underway. But if contractors can't get steel when they need it because

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — White and Negro high school seniors register today at Little Rock's four public high schools. Police have been alerted for any disturbance.

A segregationist leader denounced a warning by city authorities that protest groups at the schools would be arrested.

The Little Rock School Board plans to open the high schools closed for a year under a plan of minimum desegregation by using a state pupil placement law.

Police Chief Gene Smith cautioned that officers would patrol the school areas and "if any gathering occurs which looks as if it might have trouble as its object, disturbers will be arrested and jailed."

Negro students may register at previously all-white Hall and Central high schools if they live in these areas, or transfer to Horace Mann high for Negroes. White pupils in the Mann area may switch to the other schools.

Jury to Study Faubus' Charges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Pulaski County Grand Jury will meet "within a short time" to consider charges made by Gov. Orval E. Faubus against Trinity Nursing Home here, Jury Foreman Phil Dulin said yesterday.

Dulin said the jury would be called when some investigations have been completed.

Faubus last week charged mistreatment of patients, improper food and medication and unsanitary conditions at Trinity.

Mrs. Gladys Brandon, the operator, and her attorney, D. D. Panich, denied the charges, invited inspection of the building and asked for a grand jury investigation.

Atomic Ship Launching Is Hailed

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The launching of the first atom-powered merchant ship, Savannah, was hailed today as a "bold and enterprising experiment in the daring and distinguished annals" of American science and seafaring.

"This ship," Mueller said, "was born of the inspiration of our distinguished president, Dwight D.

Neither the family's attorney nor O'Neill would disclose upon the circumstances of the case. Dr. Nida died July 4.

Yankees Once More in Middle of Flag Race

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant race, suddenly a seven-game slugfest between the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, jumps into another trying two weeks for the leaders with the New York Yankees once more right in the middle.

The Yankees, not quite feeble and not quite robust, still are fourth, 5 1/2 games shy of the lead after knocking both the Indians and White Sox out of first in a four-day sprint. The Yankees own a three-game series at Cleveland tonight.

The Indians at the moment are back in first by the slimmest margin possible, a matter of one percentage point. They made it when they split a doubleheader at Boston Sunday while the White Sox were losing a twofold at New York.

Just last Thursday, it was the White Sox who took the lead by splitting a doubleheader at Boston while the Yankees took two from the Indians.

No games were scheduled in the AL Monday.

In the National League, second-place Los Angeles trimmed San Francisco's lead to 1 1/2 games by beating the Giants 3-2. St. Louis defeated Chicago's Cubs 2-0 in the only other game.

Cleveland's still tops in the AL despite only a 6-8 record since the All-Star game break. The White Sox are 8-4 in that span with third-place Baltimore, 3 1/2 games back, 7-5. The Yankees have won only six of 13 since the All-Star game.

You have to look deep to find the secret of Cleveland's success second division deep. The Indians now stand 5-9 against the White Sox for the season, and 3-6 against Baltimore, 6-8 against New York.

Drysdale Brings Dodgers Along for Key Victory

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

That's a pretty snappy formula the Los Angeles Dodgers have come up with in their run for the National League pennant — pitch Don Drysdale, score three and they're home free.

Any club that scores twice against the big, cross-firing right-hander has had it.

It was Drysdale who got the Dodgers started on their jump from fifth place when he blanked Milwaukee 4-0 June 15. In the five weeks since, the Dodgers have won 21, lost but 13. Drysdale has a 7-1 record for that span.

He won his 12th with the help of home runs from Gil Hodges and Charlie Neal Monday, pitching the Dodgers to a 3-2 victory in the opener of a two-game set with San Francisco that pushed Los Angeles within 1 1/2 games of the first-place Giants.

It was Drysdale's third in a row since the All-Star game (when he pitched a bidless three innings for the winning NL) and ended Johnny Antonelli's win string at four in a double four-hit duel.

Only one other game was scheduled in the NL. St. Louis gained a fifth place tie with Chicago by beating the Cubs 2-0 Monday night behind the nine-hit pitching of Ernie Broglio.

No games were scheduled in the American League.

The Cardinals broke a shutout duel between Broglio and Glen Hobbie in the seventh inning, with both runs unearned. Broglio got things rolling when his grounder got through second baseman Tony Taylor. Bill White, Ken Boyer and Gino Cimoli put it away with two out singles.

Baptist High Board to Air the Future

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Baptist High School Board of Trustees will meet tomorrow to consider future operation of the private school, opened after public high schools were closed last fall.

The board has said it would operate the school only if sufficient interest were shown to make it a permanent institution. So far today 21 prospective students had submitted registration fees will meet tomorrow to consider the first semester's tuition.

Trustees had set a minimum of 225 students would be needed for permanent operation.

Board President Hardy Winburn said he did not know what action would be taken, but said it felt the Board could either announce definitely that the school would open or "announce that it would meet again later to re-evaluate the situation and in the meantime return the checks."

CHAPTER XX

Diane Paige needed a tool for what she had in mind. Something long and sharp and rigid. She remembered the aluminum rods which Casey had bought for trellises at the cottage. They were light and very strong. Perhaps one of those would serve the purpose.

She ran back to the cottage, picked up one of the rods and knew she could handle it with no trouble.

Then Diane hurried down to the beach again.

She crossed the beach. Going to the big Blanchard house by the road would take too much time and anyway, she might be seen.

Neither Owen Blanchard nor anyone else must stop her now. She reached the base of the steep, deadly looking staircase, gripped the aluminum rod tightly and started up.

She climbed slowly because she did not want to be out of breath when she reached the top. Besides, with the aluminum rod impeding her, she had only one hand with which to cling to the old rotten handrail.

At last she reached the top. She had to sit down for a few moments.

Behind her the moon was gliding from what had so far been a cloud-filled sky. As she sat on the top step, she threw a shadow. It reminded her of a shepherd, for she sat with her knees up, holding the aluminum rod straight up like a shepherd's crook, and in the shadow, that's what it looked like. She smiled, and was grateful that she still could smile.

Now it was time to find out if she could go on and do the task she had in mind. She glanced at the big house, which had lights on the first floor and in one up stairs room.

Mentally she plotted the location of that room, for later use. Then she approached the small Blanchard family private cemetery.

Diane was no cold-blooded, nerveless woman. What she had to do now, taxed all the courage she had.

She hesitated just beyond the fence that enclosed the little cemetery. Perhaps she did not have enough strength to do what she had to do. Perhaps she'd have to try and call upon some deep reserve.

Thinking of the child helped her. The thoughts made her angry, and in anger can be found an additional reserve of power.

Diane climbed the fence, awkwardly and ungraciously, with the long aluminum rod in her hand. Then she stood on the ground between the graves of Ernest Blanchard and Libby Blanchard.

She stifled all superstitions, fears with all the strength she could muster, and drove the aluminum rod into the ground.

The end of the rod had been cut on a diagonal so that it made a rather good point and ate into the earth easily—for a distance of about 12 inches.

Then Diane had to brace herself and push and waver the metal rod deeper and deeper.

Diane had put the aluminum rod into the ground directly above the grave of Ernest Blanchard.

She continued to work and to push, sending it more deeply into the ground. Then suddenly it stopped.

When she worried it, turned it, she could feel its point against something hard as cement. She guessed that this was the top of the outer box, enclosing the coffin.

She tugged at the rod frantically, worried it up and free. When at last it was out of the ground she was sweating.

She rested for a few minutes, then with some more of that reserve courage, Diane Paige dug the metal pole into the soil directly over Libby Blanchard's grave.

This time it encountered earth more tightly impacted than that throttled in a wooded area near the Little Rock Air Force Base a few days after Christmas, 1955.

The state charged Leggett, now 22, strangled the boy when the latter resisted an unnatural sexual advance.

The boy's step father, James R. King, a non-commissioned officer in the Air Force, now is stationed at Randolph Air Force Base, near San Antonio.

He confirmed to newsmen there that his wife had sent the telegram to Faubus.

He said that both he and Mrs. King believe that Leggett is insane and should not be electrocuted.

Leggett has been declared sane by psychiatrists a number of times, but at one time an out-of-state group disagreed, holding that he was insane.

At one time Faubus told newsmen that Mrs. King had conferred with him personally and asked that Leggett's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment if the governor should decide he was insane.

At the time Faubus did not say that Mrs. King felt Leggett was insane.

LITTLE ROCK — 1st add 1st head Leggett LR35 x x x was insane.

In another development, Leggett's attorney, Kenneth Coffelt, asked Faubus to stay Leggett's scheduled electrocution pending further legal moves.

He filed a formal petition at the governor's office.

Coffelt was turned down by Pulaski Circuit Judge William J. Kirby yesterday on a request that rape charges pending against Leggett be dropped on ground that time for trying the cases had expired.

And Prosecutor J. Frank Holt refused to set a date for the rape trial.

Coffelt, who apparently feels that over the grave of Ernest Blanchard. But Diane pushed and worked and worried again, until the pole had been put down to a distance of five or six feet.

This was far enough for her to be sure there was nothing buried beneath this earth and that the headstone was a fraud.

She pulled the pole out most of the way, but her strength was waning and she finally left the aluminum rod there, protruding four feet or more above the headstone.

Walking slowly back to the fence, she kept her eyes straining ahead, hardly daring to breathe. She got over the fence gracefully, but after a few more steps Diane gave way to the wild urging of terror within her. She began to run.

Then at last Diane came to the back of the big Blanchard house, out of breath, her heart pounding, her hands, arms and face soiled with dirt. There was a long scratch on her forearm which had been bleeding, but which she had not been aware of. Her dress was wrinkled, probably torn. But she didn't know how and didn't care.

When Diane walked around to the front of the house, she moved in an aura of triumph. She had proof now for Owen Blanchard. Proof that he could not wave away by saying that she had lost her mind.

Let Owen Blanchard try to explain away a headstone over an empty grave.

Diane Paige actually marched up onto the wide, rambling porch and used the heavy brass knocker as authoritatively as if she were a police officer with a warrant.

Letitia Calder opened the door and stared at her and her dishveled clothing.

Russia Warns

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
GENEVA (AP) — The West looked to the Soviet Union today for a new proposal on German unity negotiations which might break the stalemate at the Big Four conference.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was assumed to be seeking instructions from Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the latest Western plan for future negotiations put before the conference Monday by U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Some Western officials said Khrushchev's cancellation of his Scandinavian tour amid new Soviet accusations against the Western alliance suggested he might be in no mood to seek a compromise at Geneva. A hardening trend in Soviet policy would not be surprising, these authorities said.

The immediate issue which has now been sharply drawn between the Soviets and Western powers gets close to the heart of their conflicting aims for the future of Germany and may be beyond compromise.

The United States, Britain and France—with the full support of West Germany—insist further negotiations on a German settlement must be conducted primarily by the Big Four powers, with the West and East Germans participating as advisors.

The Soviet Union and East Germany demand negotiations be turned over to a committee of East and West Germans, meeting as equals.

Herter rejected the Soviet proposal on behalf of the West, calling it totally unacceptable. He said the Soviet purpose "is all too clearly to perpetuate the partition of Germany."

Gromyko in turn turned down the Western proposal, but said he was making a preliminary response. He said the Western plan clearing up of the rape charge would give him a better chance to save Leggett from the electric chair, appealed Kirby's decision to the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Also hanging is another appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court from Arkansas courts' refusal to order a jury hearing on Leggett's mental state.

Five U. S. Supreme Court justices have refused to stay the scheduled electrocution pending a decision on his appeal.

At Tucker Prison Farm, Leggett yesterday switched on his radio in the death house and heard the announcer tell of Kirby's decision.

"I'm disappointed," Leggett said.

"My mother told me everything would be all right after today."

Leggett spends his time reading magazines and a Bible, listening to the radio and watching a television set that was a birthday present from his family. He has the set situated so the other 15 men in the death house can watch it.

HELP FOR THE HELPLESS

It's hard to keep up hope when you are hungry. Prayer can feed the soul, but the body must be fed with food. Today, throughout the overseas world, there are hundreds of thousands of hungry and homeless men, women and children. They have nowhere to go, far too little to eat. Help them keep body and soul together.

You can serve your fellow man in need by contributing to the overseas aid programs of your local church or World Refugee Year help give new hope, new life, to the thousands who have no one to look to but you.

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — A branch bank here is getting a branch of its own.

First Union National Bank officials say their plaza branch in a suburban area will be a corner.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — A monkey scampering through the trees, it would just be Coco eluding his owner.

Coco, a cinnamon monkey, has been on the loose in that area since he chewed his collar off Friday and escaped from his owner, 74-year-old John Harris, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. Frank Binoies about three blocks from the mansion.

When last seen, Coco was heading in the direction of the mansion, Harris said.
